

From 4-8th July this year members of Software Cornwall are running a work experience week for students at Bluefruit Software in Redruth. For the week students will work to solve code challenges and experience what's like to be a Software Engineer working with mentors from Cornwall's top software development businesses.

For the week students will form an exciting new start up that has won a contract to deliver a software driven product, with your mentor you will work on a number of challenges in order to fulfil the contract. You will learn how to identify, code, test and deliver your solution.

On the final day you will have the opportunity to celebrate and meet local employers and developers. Find out more about tech in Cornwall, exciting career opportunities, and get advice on the best pathway for you.

To apply for a place on the experience take a photo of this poster so you can visit www.softwarecornwall.org for more information and complete our online application form.

Reasons to consider a career in Digital Tech in Cornwall:

- ✓ Average Salary for a Software Developer in Cornwall - £34,000
- ✓ Local companies have recruited hundreds in the past few years
- ✓ Cornwall has the second fastest growing Digital Tech cluster in the UK
- ✓ Software isn't just about writing code, our industry needs designers, testers, marketers and there are many roles and skills sets needed
- ✓ Digital jobs are growing by 11% each year in the UK, with 1.56 million jobs in the UK